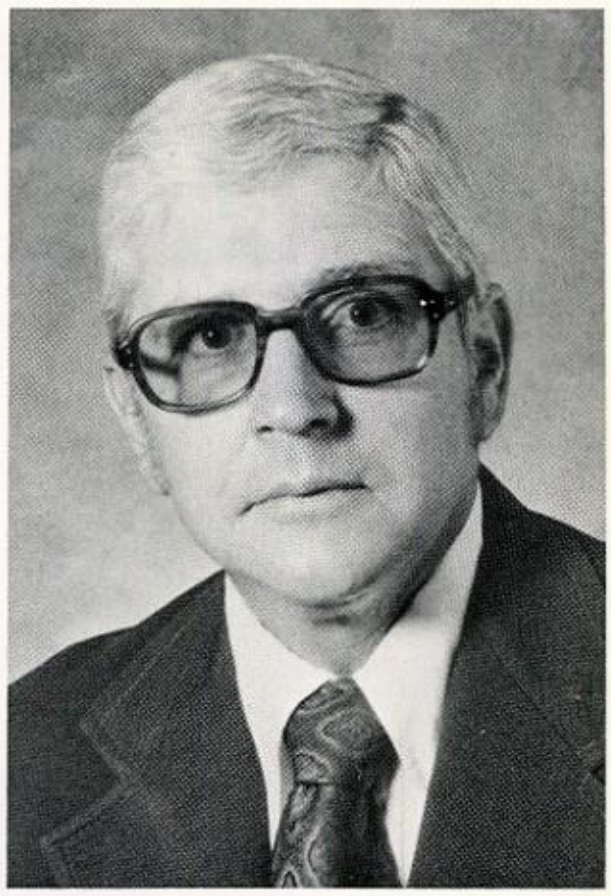
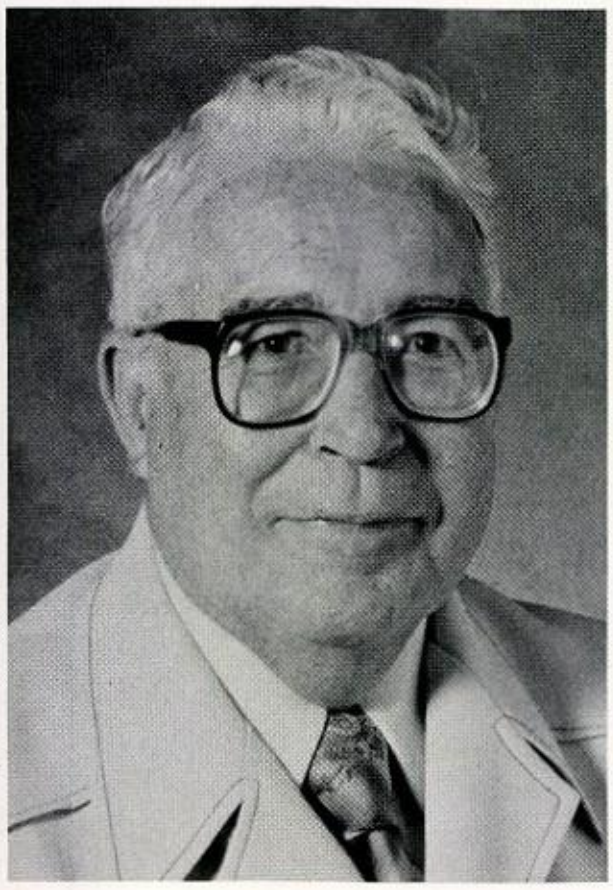
Being a man of many qualities, Mr. Hawes is greatly appreciated by H.H.S. This will conclude his sixth year of dedicated work in our school.



Mr. Newberry is constantly looking for ideas to improve H.H.S. His smile reflects the overall attitude of our school.



The students and faculty could not manage the year without the services of our secretaries.

Charles H. Morris

From the 1977–78 Yearbook Staff, we only hope that this book will bring back the reality and true emotions felt during this school year. Our purpose was not to create a "masterpiece" yearbook, but rather to "reflect" the actual scenes and happenings of the year.

We feel that in the years to come, we students will be able to look back to our yearbook and appreciate the many things that our parents, friends, and faculty has helped us with. We may also see how much our lives change with the responsibilities of adulthood.

I have come across a short and meaningful poem by Charles H. Morris, and would like to make it a challenge to all of our everyday lives.
